“ I have so many fond memories of Craig, he looks so handsome when he stood up as my husband's best man and make sure he (Steve)got to the church on time. He and I enjoyed watching movies set in the early eighteen hundreds in England more than what we had spent at least two weeks going to the library and getting the video tapes and watching at least two or three of them a day. And for at least two to three months after that whenever we spoke to each other we used Elizabethton English. I remember when your arm is very upset because nobody remembered my 40th birthday until the telephone rang at about 7:30 that night Of course it was Craig to wish me happy birthday..
